

Wine Spectator

October 15, 2005

Hugel et Fils Riesling 2003

“This is dry, with earth and mineral aromas followed by quince and apricot flavors ... the flavors linger on and on.”

- Bruce Sanderson

88 points

Wine Spectator

October 15, 2005

Hugel et Fils Gewurztraminer 2003

“Fresh and elegant, displaying pear and rosewater aromas and flavors, picking up a hint of litchi on the finish. A fresh, more delicate style for the vintage, this shows balance and harmony.”

- Bruce Sanderson

89 points

Wine Spectator

October 31, 2005

Hugel et Fils Pinot Noir Jubilee 2003

“Rich and velvety, this exhibits black cherry and blackberry flavors, a ripe tannic structure and full body. Fine depth and complexity, with tannins on the finish. This should develop well. Drink now through 2009.”

- Bruce Sanderson

89 points

Wine Spectator

October 31, 2005

Hugel et Fils Riesling Hommage a Jean Hugel 1998

“At its peak, this boasts apricot, nectarine and citrus flavors, an opulent texture, yet good underlying acidity that refreshes the finish and keeps pumping the flavors through the long,. mineral-tinged aftertaste. Drink now though 2010.”

- Bruce Sanderson

92 points

Wine Spectator

October 31, 2005

Hugel et Fils Gewurztraminer Vendange Tardive 2001

“Open and round, this is harmonious and intense. Packed with floral, litchi and spice notes, it caresses the palate and leaves a grapefruit peel aftertaste. Fine length. Drink now through 2010.”

- Bruce Sanderson

93 points

Wine Spectator

October 31, 2005

Hugel et Fils Pinot Gris Vendange Tardive 2001

“This melts in your mouth. Fresh, intense and simultaneously weightless, with truffle, spice, quince and apricot flavors mingling with the vibrant structure. Drink now through 2015.”

- Bruce Sanderson

95 points

